MEMORANDUM OF CONVERSATION

PARTICIPANTS: The President, General Secretary Brezhnev, and W. E. Colby

In the receiving line after the signing of the agreement on the prevention of nuclear war, the President identified me as with CIA in presenting me to Mr. Brezhnev. Mr. Brezhnev asked the President if I was a dangerous man. The President assured him that I was not. I added to Mr. Brezhnev that the more we know of each other the safer we both can be. The President added that I also fully supported the new agreement, which I confirmed.
